

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. ## PREFATORY NOTE

IN resuming, after an interval of four years, the series of Bibliographical Contributions the first fifty-three numbers of which were prepared under the direction of Justin Winsor, the Library is glad to make this its first issue a record of the extent and variety of Mr. Winsor's literary activity and a mark of the esteem in which his work is held by critics, historians, and bibliographers.

The chronological sequence of titles in the following list furnishes an interesting clue by which to follow the course of Mr. Winsor's life and the successive fields in which he worked. His History of Duxbury was published before he entered College, and two contributions of an historical character were printed in the New England historical and genealogical register while he was an undergraduate. For the next sixteen years, 1852 to 1868, his printed work consisted entirely of literary articles, book reviews, original verse, and metrical translations from the German, an interval of four years, 1859 to 1863, in the midst of this period being largely occupied with work on a life of Garrick which remains unpublished. With Mr. Winsor's appointment on the Visiting Committee of the Boston Public Library in 1867 and as Superintendent in 1868, his attention was turned to library matters, and the substance of the Bibliography for the next ten years (1867 to 1877) is made up of discussions of problems of library administration in the Reports of the Public Library, in the pages of the Library Journal, and occasionally in other journals, of bibliographical notes in catalogues and reading lists in the compilation of which Mr. Winsor showed a remarkable grasp and facility, and of a few larger independent bibliographical publications.

The next period (1878 to 1889) is marked by the production of two great historical works, the Memorial History of Boston and the Narrative and Critical History of America, for which Mr. Winsor secured the coöperation of a large number of historical scholars, but to which he contributed many chapters by his own hand, and added throughout elaborate bibliographical and historical notes and many essays on the sources of information. At the same time he began to be a frequent contributor to the Proceedings of the Massachusetts Historical Society and of the American Antiquarian Society, and so continued to the end.

The last seven years of his life (1891 to 1897) are characterized by the publication of four volumes of original historical narrative, tracing the progress of American exploration from Columbus through the "Westward movement" that marked the last quarter of the eighteenth century. Historical addresses, contributions to the Proceedings of historical societies, some of which take the form of bibliographical surveys of historical sources, and occasional articles in the Atlantic Monthly or elsewhere, make up a surprising total of literary activity, but articles on library themes, except the remarks in his annual Reports, cease almost entirely.

The Bibliography here printed, though compiled with great labor and care, is doubtless still incomplete, especially in the earlier years. Mr. Yust's work was done in the first place while he was a student in the New York State Library School; he increased his material by further investigation in Boston and Cambridge with the help of Mr. A. C. Potter of the Harvard Library, while a later examination by myself of journals and scrap-books remaining in Mrs. Winsor's hands brought to light many additional titles in the years from 1855 to 1866. A blank book labelled "Poems of art and nature" is composed of poems, original and translated, arranged by subjects as if for publication. Many of these are recorded under the earlier years of this list, but the first publication of a number of others has not been traced. It is known that some were printed in the Boston Post over the signature "Boscawen."

The list of book notices and reviews is confessedly incomplete. From March 1856 to December 1858 short paragraphs on a variety of subjects were contributed to the Crayon and printed under the caption "Studies among the leaves." Mr. Winsor was also writing frequently for the Boston Post, and from 1860 to 1862, years in which the Bibliography shows almost nothing, he was the regular Boston literary correspondent of the New York World. From 1887 to 1897 he was American editor of the English Historical Review, but does not seem to have taken any active part in the conduct of the periodical.

1868-77

Boston Public Library. Sixteenth — twenty-fifth annual report of the trustees of the Public Library. 1868-1877. [Boston. 1868-77.] 8°.

Each report contains the separate reports of the trustees, the examining committee, and the superintendent (Justin Winsor), with appendices.

The reports of the superintendent are from 50 to 125 pages in length, including the statistical appendices. They treat systematically and with more or less fulness the following subjects: Buildings; — Administration: library service, examination of the library, registration of applicants, branch libraries; — Books: extent of the library, increase, donations, shelf duplicates, sale duplicates, pamphlets, purchase of books, bindery; — Circulation: use of the library, Bates hall classifications and reading, lower hall classifications and reading, periodical reading room, losses and delinquents; — Catalogues; — Bulletins; — Finance.

The following subjects are of special interest or are discussed with unusual fulness in the reports noted:

1868. Books, their number and increase in this library as compared with other libraries of this and foreign countries. pp. 31-35; — Safeguards in the registration of book-takers. pp. 42-47; — The fiction question. pp. 56-64; — How to extend the use of the library. pp. 68-71.
 1869. Examination of the library without closing it. pp. 31-34; — Pamphlets. pp. 44-47; — The system of purchasing books. pp. 47-51; — Statistics of libraries in Massachusetts. Appendix 22; — Statistics of libraries in the United States. App. 23; — A tabulation of returns from 13 English libraries in response to a circular of 30 questions concerning their status and work. App. 24; — The same for some libraries of continental Europe. App. 25.

Of this report of 125 pages the examining committee says, "He has not only given a complete statement of the condition and management of the library he so ably superintends, but he has gathered, through a wide correspondence with American and European librarians, a great variety of interesting facts illustrating the principles on which the libraries of the world are generally conducted, and has thus furnished the materials for comparing the administration of other public libraries with our own. . . . His report is in many respects an invaluable addition to bibliothecal knowledge." p. 14.

1871. The fiction question. pp. 30-34.
 1872. Buildings. pp. 14-17, 80-85; a change in the catalogue; adoption of a plan similar to that at the University of Leyden. pp. 28-32.
 1873. Buildings. pp. 21-25; — Annotations of the Class list for history, biography and travel. pp. 29-30.
 1874. Buildings. pp. 19-23; — The fiction question. pp. 27-28.
 1875. Buildings. pp. 22-26; — Beginning of the Historical fiction list. pp. 31-32; — Discontinuation of the indicator. pp. 33-34.
 1877. The main body of this report consists of an extended examination of the library during the ten years of Mr. Winsor's administration.

Boston Public Library. Superintendent's monthly report. No. 1-87. July, 1869 — Sept. 1877. N. P. N. D. f°.

Each report is a folded sheet of four pages, and gives in tabular form the statistics of the month.

Beginning with no. 46 (April, 1874) the last page and sometimes part of the third page is occupied by bibliographical notes on Shakespeare, intended eventually for the Barton Catalogue, and printed here in advance to call forth corrections.

No. 46. The first folio, 1623. — 47. The second folio, 1632. — 48. The third and fourth folios, 1663, 1664, 1685. — 49-62. The quartos before 1623. — 63-69. The quartos, 1623-1709. — 69-72. Shakespeare's poems, early editions. — 72-76. Spurious and doubtful plays. — 77-87. Shakespeare quartos in the British Museum.

Boston Public Library. Bulletins, showing titles of books added to the library [with bibliographical notes, etc.]. Boston. Issued by the Library. 1871-78. 1. 8°.

Vol. I. nos. 1-19. Oct. 1867 to Oct. 1871.

Vol. II. nos. 20-35. Oct. 1871 to Oct. 1875.

Vol. III. nos. 36-47. Oct. 1875 to Oct. 1878.

In Bulletin no. 3 (February, 1868) Mr. Winsor's election as Superintendent is recorded.

No. 14 (June, 1870) contains an article from Mr. Winsor's pen reprinted from the Boston Post of April 7, 1870 — The Public Library; how books are bought. Some account of the workings of the institution. pp. 250-252.

Bibliographical notes appended to important titles begin in no. 29 (April, 1874). More extended bibliographical articles on special subjects by Mr. Winsor and by others became a regular feature of the Bulletin beginning with no. 33 (April, 1875).

Mr. Winsor's principal contributions are the following: —

Cutter, and Justin Winsor, Aug. 4, 1877, pp. 7-14. The report of the sub-committee covers two subjects: (1) the central and departmental libraries; (2) the catalogue. Noticed in the Boston daily advertiser, 27 Dec. 1877.

Extracts from this report are printed in the Library journal, July, 1878, iii. 195.

[Preliminary report as librarian of Harvard University, Dec. 10, 1877.] (Fifty-second annual report of the president of Harvard College, 1876-77. Cambridge. 1878. 8°. pp. 109-111.)

This brief report includes a concise statement of the position of the library in a system of collegiate instruction, and a scheme for bringing all the libraries of the university into one system for purposes of prompt and economic administration. The details of this scheme are given in the committee report the title of which is printed just above.

1878-98

First — twentieth report of Justin Winsor, librarian of Harvard University, 1878-1897. [Cambridge. 1879-98.] 8°.

These are reprinted from the annual reports of the president of Harvard University.

Nearly all of these reports contain tables of statistics, most of which are comparative for a period of years, on the following subjects: Accessions to the library for the year, and the present extent of the various departments; present extent of the laboratory and classroom libraries; gifts to the Gore Hall collection; accessions of recent years; use of books at Gore Hall; reading room collections; borrowers from Radcliffe College; percentage of users among the undergraduates; students' use of the Gore Hall library; admission cards; borrowers registered at Gore Hall; Sunday use; lost books; titles catalogued; financial condition (Gore Hall only); payments and purchases (Gore Hall only); summary of new orders sent; estimated amount in dollars of orders sent to principal agents (Gore Hall only); tabulation of orders (University library).

These tables are frequently accompanied by discussions, the more important of which are mentioned below.

1878. 1st report. Functions of a university library; the catalogues and their proposed improvement; the Bulletin, or quarterly list of accessions; proposed introduction of electric light in the reading hall; the value of unrestricted access to large classes of books; notes and queries; the treatment of pamphlets and desirability of a bindery.

1879. 2d. Scudder's Catalogue of scientific serials; present bibliographical activity in literary centres; moving and re-classifications of books; summary of the arrangement of folk-lore; plans for enlarging the use of the books in the botanical and divinity libraries; the system of books reserved by professors as collateral reading for their classes.

An extract from this report on "Use of college libraries" is reprinted in the Library journal, Feb. 1880, v. 47. Another extract is in the Harvard register Apr. 1880, i. 83.

1880. 3d. Plan for enlarging the Bulletin; the new system of classification; work with the classes in debating and theme writing; admission of students to the shelves for consultation; the subject catalogue.

Extracts from this, especially the part relating to the arrangement of literature, are reprinted in the Library journal, Jan. 1881, vi. 9-10.

Extracts concerning the enlargement of the Bulletin and the work with debating classes are in the Harvard register, Jan. 1881, iii. 39-40.

1883. 6th. Classification of the Greek and Latin classics and the notation employed.

1884. 7th. Re-arrangement and cataloguing of the map collection; work of the catalogue and order departments; important private collections and their acquisition by public libraries.

1885. 8th. Work of the catalogue and order departments.

1886. 9th. Publications of Harvard University and its officers; work of the order department.

1887. 10th. Regulating at the central library the purchase, recording, and cataloguing of books in the departmental libraries; a glance at the development of the library during his ten years' service.

1888. 11th. Laboratory and class-room libraries; missing books; changes in the catalogue; the charge for "continuations"; work of the map department.

1889. 12th. Cost of printed catalogue cards; insufficiency of the Library building.

1890. 13th. The main part of this report was prepared during Mr. Winsor's absence in Europe by the assistant librarian, William H. Tillinghast. The two preliminary pages which Mr. Winsor wrote deal with the need for an increase in the book funds and the disproportionate expenditure for periodical literature.

1891. 14th. The Index to the subject catalogue; admission of students to the shelves; our collection of maps; the inadequacy of the Library building, both for books and for readers.

1892. 15th. The public card catalogue; the cataloguing of continuations; the coin collection; the crowded conditions of the delivery and reading rooms.

1894. 17th. The loss of books; a list of maps bequeathed by Francis Parkman; the inadequate accommodations for books and readers in Gore Hall.

1895. 18th. Loans of books to distant persons and institutions; changes that are being made in the building; problems and difficulties of the ordering department.

1896. 19th. Work of the catalogue department; insufficiency of the book funds.

1897. 20th. Arrangement of scientific serials on the shelves; lack of funds for the purchase of books.

This report was prepared in outline by Mr. Winsor shortly before his death and completed by the assistant librarian, William H. Tillinghast.

1880-81

The memorial history of Boston, including Suffolk county, Massachusetts. 1630-1880. Edited by Justin Winsor, librarian of Harvard University. Issued under the business superintendence of the projector, Clarence F. Jewett. Boston. James R. Osgood & co. 1880-81. 4 vol. 4°. pp. xxxii, 596; xiii, lviii, 577; xiii, xii, 691; x, 713. Illus. plates, portraits, woodcuts, maps.

"The scheme of this History originated with Mr. Clarence F. Jewett, who, towards the end of December, 1879, entrusted the further development of the plan to the Editor. On the third of January following, about thirty gentlemen met, upon invitation, to give countenance to the undertaking, and at this meeting a committee was appointed to advise with the Editor during the progress of the work. This Committee consisted of the Rev. Edward E. Hale, Samuel A. Green, and Charles Deane . . . The History is cast on a novel plan—not so much in being a work of co-operation, but because, so far as could be, the several themes, as sections of one homogeneous whole, have been treated by those who have some particular association and, it may be, long acquaintance with the subject. . . . The Editor has endeavored to prevent any unnecessary repetitions, and to provide against any serious omissions of what might naturally be expected in a history of its kind." — Preface.

Dedication:

To

Charles William Eliot, LL.D.

President of Harvard University.

Dear Eliot:

Forty years ago, you and I, having made preparation together, entered college on the same day. We later found different spheres in the world; and you came back to Cambridge in due time to assume your high office. Twelve years ago, sought by you, I likewise came, to discharge a duty under you.

You took me away from many cares, and transferred me to the more congenial service of the University. The change has conduced to the progress of those studies in which I hardly remember to have had a lack of interest.

So I owe much to you; and it is not, I trust, surprising that I desire to connect, in this work, your name with that of your

Obliged friend,

Justin Winsor.

Cambridge, 1889.

Dedication:

To

Francis Parkman, LL.D.,
The Historian of New France.

Dear Parkman:—

You and I have not followed the maritime peoples of western Europe in planting and defending their flags on the American shores without observing the strange fortunes of the Italians, in that they have provided pioneers for those Atlantic nations without having once secured in the New World a foothold for themselves.

When Venice gave her Cabot to England and Florence bestowed Verrazano upon France, these explorers established the territorial claims of their respective and foster motherlands, leading to those contrasts and conflicts which it has been your fortune to illustrate as no one else has.

When Genoa gave Columbus to Spain and Florence accredited her Vesputius to Portugal, these adjacent powers, whom the Bull of Demarcation would have kept asunder in the new hemisphere, established their rival races in middle and southern America, neighboring as in the Old World; but their contrasts and conflicts have never had so worthy a historian as you have been for those of the north.

The beginnings of their commingled history I have tried to relate in the present work, and I turn naturally to associate in it the name of the brilliant historian of France and England in North America with that of your obliged friend,

Justin Winsor.

Cambridge, June, 1890.

Five impressions, called editions, have been printed of this, — in October and December, 1891, and January, May, and November, 1892. The fifth edition revised contains additional notes.

Dedication:

To James B. Angell, LL.D.,
President of the University of Michigan.
Dear Doctor:—

Your fortune took you from the seaboard of New England to the valley of the St. Lawrence, and on the banks of that lake where Champlain first invoked the enmity of the Iroquois, you took your place among those who preside over our American colleges. Thence you went to a distant verge of that same valley, and near the path which La Salle followed in the boldest action of his life, you have developed the greatest university which we have beyond the mountains.

No one knows better than yourself how the great valley which the American people shares with others on the north and the greater valley of the interior which is all ours, and which almost becomes one with the other at various points, carry the streams of national life back and forth between the gulf which Cartier opened and that other gulf which Columbus failed to comprehend. This book cannot be more fitly inscribed than to you, by an adopted son of your university, and your friend,

Justin Winsor.

London.

Dear Mr. Markham, —

Such an observer as you are knows how the physiography of a continent influences its history; how it opens avenues of discovery, directs lines of settlement, and gives to the natural rulers of the earth their coign of vantage. I would not say that there are not other compelling influences; but no other control is so steady. If we appreciate such a dominating power in subjecting the earth to man's uses, we cannot be far from discerning the pith of history, particularly of those periods which show the work of pioneers.

The society over which you hold so signal an authority gives itself to the study of geography as elucidating many problems in man's destiny. There is, then, a fitness, I trust, in your accepting this homage from one who is enrolled in that society's foreign membership, and also is your friend and servant,

Justin Winsor.

Sir Henry W. Dyke Acland, Bart.,
K.C.B., D.C.L., LL.D., F.R.S.,
Honorary Physician to His Royal Highness, the Prince of Wales.

My dear Sir Henry,—

When a few days ago at the Bodleian you addressed a party of sixty American librarians, you showed what I have long known, that you have a kind appreciation of my countrymen, with some of whom your friendship has lasted from the time when you accompanied the Prince of Wales to the States in 1860.

You have since then traversed our land on other visits, during which you have evinced to me your interest in our history, particularly when some years ago we together looked over the ground hallowed by the devotion of Lady Harriet Acland.

I therefore like to connect your name with this book, which is a story of how much of our territorial integrity we owe to British forbearance, when the false-hearted diplomacy of France and Spain would have despoiled us.

Ever your friend,

Justin Winsor.
